REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

Headquarters of the Republican State Central Committee,
DENVER, Colorado, July 26, 1888.

In accordance with the instructions of the republican state central committee, a convention of the republican party of Colorado is hereby called to meet at Denver, on Tuesday the 4th day of September, A. D. 1888, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of nominating the following candidates for the state offices, to be filled at the state election to be held on Tuesday, the 6th day of November, A. D. 1888, to wit:

One representative in the Fifty-first congress.
One state judge.
One governor of the State of Colorado.
One lieutenant-governor of the state of Colorado.
One state treasurer.
One secretary of state.
One auditor of state.
One attorney general.
One superintendent of public instruction.
Two regents of the university of Colorado.
One judge of the supreme court of Colorado.

The said state convention will also elect:

Three republican presidential electors for the state of Colorado.

One chairman of the state central committee and one committeeman from each county in the state to constitute the republican state central committee for the ensuing two years.

To transact such other business as may properly come before said convention.

The several counties of the state will be entitled to representation in said convention as follows:

It is desirable to have all delegates present at said convention.

L. E. STEELE, Secretary. H. A. W. TABOR, Chairman.

It is to be hoped that Editor Moore will soon get out of the country or away from our telegraph lines. It is hard to understand why a man is so interesting to an associated press reporter when he has forfeited the respect of his friends.

It turns out that one of the strong points made against the confirmation of Chief Justice Fuller was that he might hold that the legal tender act was unconstitutional. This ought to have been a reason for confirming him. Fifteen years ago it was said that two judges were appointed to the supreme court to overrule the majority there then that was in favor of declaring that act unconstitutional. The safety of the nation demanded the act, and that is a good reason for its passage. But when the necessity was passed, it was much better to look at the act in a strictly legal way. It could not wipe out the good the law had done, but it would wipe out the danger that it destroyed.

The house committee should not waste its energies on the "whiskey trust." It will not be a public calamity if no whiskey is distilled in 1888 as agreed by the trust, or even if the price is put up. This is the one trust that should be encouraged. It would be an excellent thing for the country if the price of whiskey were a dollar a drink instead of two drinks for a nickel as it may be, if the trust is destroyed, and Reformer McKinley's scheme of taking the tax off of whiskey is carried out. What the people wish to know is how the sugar trust, the lumber trust, and other trusts that have increased the cost of the necessities of life from ten to fifty per cent can be destroyed.

The "free whiskey" congressmen are a little sore because the republican members of the senate choose to regard the welfare of the country before their consistency as party men. The true meaning of the platform is shown by the fact that McKinley, its author, and Judge Kelley, its chief apostle, consider that republican senators are acting contrary to the teaching of the platform when they attempt to draw a bill which favors any tariff reduction in order to reduce the surplus. But these republican senators will serve their party best by serving the country best. They make it possible for the republican party to win back the votes of those sturdy republicans who have stated they could not vote for Harrison because the platform of 1888 were contrary to the platforms of 1880 and 1884 and all republican teaching. The men who are more loyal to the principles that have made the republican party great and useful than to the organization itself, are men well worth conciliating. The senators propose to carry out the platform of 1884 which is just as good and just as sound republican doctrine now as then. It will show that whatever the platforms may say the party can be trusted in congress to do what is right. It is the best argument in favor of putting the administration of the government in the hands of the republican party.

SENATE RESPONSIBILITY.

The prod with which democrats are trying to stir up republican senators to injudicious action is the sneer that democrats have agreed upon a tariff bill in the house while republicans in the senate cannot agree. Is it quite worth while to injure the republican cause, or to run any risk of injuring it, for no better reason than to prove that [illegible] he [illegible] to do a thing, he infers they are trying to get him into a hole of some sort. The democrats of the house have been forced by executive dictation and threats to accept a bill, and without that influence the party in power would have exhibited a state of disintegrating discord. The republicans have no such responsibility, are under no obligations to frame any bill whatever, and they have no administration to give them the benefit of leadership. The people have taken the responsibility from them for the present, and it is no part of their duty to propose bills which they know they cannot pass.—New York Tribune.

This is taken from an article under the republican senate not to draw up a tariff bill and is the kind of a tariff bill is doing most hard to the republican party. The whole plea is not only unpatriotic, but shows want of good faith from a party standpoint and is based on a misrepresentation of the facts. The republican platform of 1884 denounced the democratic party for doing nothing to reduce the surplus and pledged the republican party would attempt to make such a revision of the inequalities of the tariff as would reduce the surplus. The democrats have now passed a bill to reduce the surplus. For the republican senate to simply vote down the bill without proposing a better one would show the party was not sincere in its denunciations of 1884. It would also show bad faith on the part of the republican party in not keeping its solemn pledges of 1884. The republican senators are therefore under obligations as party men to pass a bill. But these republican senators have also an obligation to the country as well as to the party. They are there to pass legislation for the good of the country. The Tribune generously says the democratic house would have shown its incapacity to govern if it had not passed a measure. But the republicans are in a majority in the senate and would not they show the same incapacity if they failed to propose a better bill? The democratic minority cannot pass a bill. The responsibility is on the majority. They cannot shirk it without being unpatriotic. The senate we are glad to see will not take the Tribune's advice. We do not wonder it hates the Sunday school man in politics when it deliberately asks the republican senators to break their pledges to the country and tells them they are under no obligations as the majority of a coordinate branch of the legislative to enact necessary legislation simply because in the opinion of political tricksters it may hurt the party. These senators did not take an oath to do only that which will help the republican party. Their duty is broader, and in doing it they will demonstrate that the republicans in congress are still controlled by patriotic sentiments and therefore worthy to again control both branches of the national legislature.

HEALTH NOTES FOR MAY.

The Benefit of Pure Mountain Air Contrasted with those of Sea Bathing.

A question very frequently put to me by my patients at this season of the year and doubtless other physicians have a like experience is, "Shall I go to the mountains or to the seashore?" Unless I have some knowledge of their peculiarities of constitution or disease, I answer to the effect that it is impossible to say which is the more suitable. Nothing can determine the point definitely except an actual trial. If the interrogator lives permanently in the vicinity of the ocean I usually tell him to go to the mountains. If his home is in the interior I advise him to try the seashore. In either case I add: "If it does not suit you to try the other." Generally speaking it is a mere matter of choice, depending upon other factors than health, change being the one thing needful, and, as I remarked in a former paper, a removal to a place a few miles distant from that at which a person permanently resides will often be sufficient to give the necessary change of air.

Undoubtedly, however, a mountain region is pre-eminently suited for some people, as the sea-shore is for others, the trouble is that we cannot always predict which will be the more beneficial till we have called actual experience to our assistance.

THE DIFFERENCE IN AIR.

There must, therefore, be differences between the air of mountains and that of the seashore. Now let us see what those differences are.

In the first place the air of mountains is less dense than that of the seashore. It contains a less amount of oxygen in any given quantity and, hence, in order that the blood may be duly oxygenized, the respiration must be more active. A person living in mountainous regions, breathing, as he does, more actively than one living on a lower plane, has more fully developed lungs and a larger chest. It would seem proper, therefore, that those who have narrow chests and a tendency to lung diseases will do well to spend a month or two in the summer in high altitudes and in climbing mountain sides. I have frequently witnessed the good results of such a course of life. The greater part of New Mexico, for instance, is from 5,000 to 7,000 feet above the level of the sea. I have seen [illegible] women who at their homes on the seaboard panted violently from the slightest exertion become after a few months' residence in Santa Fe strong and ruddy, with their breathing capacity greatly increased and able to walk briskly two or three miles or climb up to the top of a steep mesa without losing their wind.

Again, the air of mountains possesses a greater amount of ozone than that of the seashore. What particular effect ozone may have upon the health of man has not yet been clearly made out. In some directions it seems to be absolutely injurious. There is good evidence to show that it is often productive of bronchial affections and especially of influenza. During epidemics of this disease an increased amount of ozone has been found in the atmosphere.

On the other hand there is no doubt that ozone is a great purifier of the atmosphere, and it is doubtless owing to the increased amount of this agent in the air of mountain regions that its salubrity is in a great measure due. I have subjected putrescent meat and vegetables to the action of ozone, and invariably the bad smell was at once corrected. It may, therefore, be regarded as a destroyer of certain germs which are capable of [illegible]

[illegible] we call malaria and which, as everybody knows, produces in the human system some very characteristic diseases. Several observers have found that this effluvium is intensified and malarious emanations really exists. At Fort Riley in Kansas where I was stationed several years since, I observed that the workmen who lived in the new adjutant's [illegible] country beginning for miles were generally subject to intermittent fever, while those with the soldiers who inhabited the barracks, built on the high ground about half a mile from the river, were not at all affected. I found on examination that ozone was during the warm season, present in very small quantity in the former place, while in the latter it existed in [illegible]

MOUNTAIN AIR.

The month of August is of all the summer months that during which malarial diseases prevail most [illegible] persons suffering from such affections, or who are liable to be attacked, the mountains afford a safe refuge and one of which they should promptly avail themselves. A few weeks spent at an altitude of from 5,000 to 10,000 feet above the sea or more, if it can be conveniently [illegible] will tone up the vital energies in the system and make them safe for at least another year.

During my stay at Fort Riley cholera prevailed on two occasions to a very great extent. While it continued the air was dry and contained no ozone. Now, ozone is formed when an electric spark is passed through oxygen or common air. The [illegible] which may indeed during the working of a stationary electrical machine or immediately after an electrical discharge during a thunderstorm is ozone. While the cholera was at its height at Fort Riley a severe thunderstorm occurred on each occasion. The course of the epidemic was at once arrested and at the same time ozone appeared in the atmosphere.

In 1866, when I was medical officer of the troops that marched across the plains from Fort Leavenworth to Santa Fe in New Mexico, cholera it raged with us, selling twenty or thirty men every day until we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet above the level of the sea, when it immediately disappeared. Cholera in the Catskills or the Adirondacks or the Rocky mountains or other similar regions would be an impossibility.

The air of mountains is, other things being equal, colder than that of the sea shore, and the former the more intense the cold. This feature is one that especially commends mountain regions during the summer months and especially to the residents of lowlands. Intense heat is irritating both to mind and body. The air of lowlands contains no [illegible]

[illegible] is originally free from organic matter, though occasionally it is highly impregnated with lime and other mineral substances according to the character of the strata through which it passes in its course.

THE BENEFITS OF MOUNTAIN AIR.

The air of mountains is especially beneficial in those debilitating states of the system resulting from diarrhea, dysentery, typhoid fever or intense mental occupation.

Sea air owes most of its beneficial qualities to the presence of iodine. To prove this it is only necessary to spread a mixture of starch and water on a piece of glass and place it in such a position that the air from the ocean will blow upon it. In a short time the mixture will become blue, owing to the presence of iodine.

Now, iodine is one of the most valuable alteratives that we possess and it is useful in the gastric and intestinal disorders of children, especially cholera infantum, and chlorosis, a disease to which women, more than men, are subject. The winds, as they pass over the surface of the ocean, take up its volatile constituents, and of these iodine is one of the most. It acts upon the system mainly through the lungs and also to a considerable extent through the skin.

As a resort for those who are convalescing from typhoid fever, dysentery, diarrhea and other exhausting diseases, there is not much to choose between the seashore and the mountains. Some, owing to individual peculiarities, are benefited more at one place than the other, but as a general thing it is a matter of indifference.

One circumstance connected with a residence at the seashore is of too much importance to be overlooked and that is sea bathing. An ocean bath is not only generally exhilarating, but increases the activity of all the functions of the skin. Some part of this effect is doubtless due to the physical effort required in battling with the surf, but there is something else which cannot be thus accounted for and of which we have no exact knowledge. Probably a minute amount of iodine and of the mineral constituents of sea water enter the system through the skin and occasionally through the small quantity of water [illegible]

[illegible] that a sea water bath taken in a bath tub, even at the ocean side, is a very different thing from a plunge into the sea itself.

SQUITOES AS A CURE FOR HEADACHE.

But, as I have said in the beginning, except in the special instances mentioned one is not likely to go wrong whether he chooses the mountains or the seashore. Frequently the whole question can be determined by a consideration of various circumstances, such as the nature of the sickness of the person concerned or his or her tastes or comfort. In one last instance [illegible] a patient [illegible] and it is from that of mountain dyspnœa. In every respect concerns the health [illegible] thoughts from these [illegible] the most equable temperature attained may constitute the turning point in certain cases of diseases. It must be confessed in all fairness that the seashore is more favored than the mountains by these venomous insects. A land breeze at the ocean side not only causes an interruption in the curative influence of sea air, but it is almost with absolute certainty brings mosquitoes with it. To be sure they are some place [illegible] what direction it comes, passes over the ocean, but there are certainly not in the immediate vicinity of New York. I have lived there all, and there is not one at which on many occasions during the summer mosquitoes do not render the nights hideous. There are no mosquitoes in the Catskills, the Green Mountains, the White Mountains, the Adirondacks, the Alleghenies, the Blue Ridge or the mountains of Colorado. That would be sufficient to settle the question with me, and doubtless with many others whom these poisonous creatures meet effectually.

COLORADO CITY ITEMS.

The republican club holds a business meeting to night, and all members are requested to be present.

Mr. O. M. Evans, who has been confined to his house for several weeks with inflammatory rheumatism, is now able to ride out occasionally.

Workmen have completed the fitting up of the building to be used by Mr. John Hunt as a meat market. He expects to open for business to-day.

The stone work on Mr. A. Z. Sheldon's residence is practically completed. The building will be one of the handsomest residences in the county. It will cost about $6000.

Messrs. A. L. Jacobs and Charles A. Kelley, the delegates from Colorado City to the state convention of Cleveland and Thurman clubs in Denver, returned yesterday. Mr. Kelley was appointed as committeeman from El Paso county in the permanent organization.

T. W. SHERWOOD, Signal Corps.

Hon. C. D. Ford of Monumeet visited the city yesterday.

Dockstader's minstrels at the opera house this evening.

A democratic club will be organized at Eastonville this evening.

Colorado Springs vs. Zacatecas on the base ball grounds this afternoon.

The county commissioners will inspect the Ute pass road to-day, which has been badly washed by the recent rains.

The Boston Land Company has filed a plat and statement of the extension of the Boston addition with the county clerk.

There will be an entire change of programme for the minstrel performances this evening, including a new and original afterpiece.

Carlile, Price & McGavock have a force of men grading for the Rock Island side tracks west of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad.

A man yesterday morning swallowed his set of false teeth, and came very near choking to death before they were extricated by a physician.

There are at present three saw mills in active operation near Florissant. About eight car loads of logs are shipped daily over the Midland to this city from the lumber region adjacent to Florissant.

Mr. R. S. Dix, who resides on North Nevada avenue, will carry off the premium for the largest gooseberries raised this year. He has two fine specimens, one 31 inches and the other 31 inches in circumference.

The regular monthly meeting of the P. O. S. of A. Building and Loan association will be held this evening at the Knights of Honor hall. The association is in a very flourishing condition and has a considerable sum of money to loan.

The lecture on "America," to be given by Father Malone at the Catholic church to-morrow night should attract a large audience, and will be well worth listening to. The price of admission is fifty cents, and the proceeds will be applied to the building fund of the new church.

The electric clock exhibition was attended by large crowds yesterday, both in the afternoon and evening, notwithstanding counter attractions. As to-day is the last day for seeing this curious piece of mechanism, the attendance will doubtless be large.

The United Presbyterians of this city will hold their first communion to-morrow. Preaching at 3 p. m. to-day, and at the usual hour to-morrow. Ordination of elders, elect, in connection with the services of this afternoon. The services of both to-day and to-morrow will be held in the city hall on South Nevada avenue, and will be conducted by the Rev. H. F. Wallace, of Greeley.

City Engineer R. L. Reed is busily engaged in making the surveys and estimates for an extension of the sewerage system to the territory west of Shook's run, east of Wahsatch and south of half a block north of Pike's Peak avenue. The original plan only included the territory west of Wahsatch, east of Cascade and south of Cache la Poudre street.

Parties either riding or driving should not fail to visit Austin's glen and Austin bluffs, about three miles northeast of the city. The driveway is in good condition to the top of the bluffs. From this point you will have the finest view of mountain and plain combined that can be had in the state, including a splendid view of the Greenhorn range and the Spanish peaks.

The readers of the GAZETTE will remember the item contained in Thursday's issue regarding the manner in which a number of women had been taken in by a woman professing to be a teacher of dress pattern making. On Thursday Sheriff Jackson located her in Trinidad, where she was arrested. He returned to the city with her yesterday afternoon and she will probably be given a hearing to-day.

Yesterday morning Justice of the Peace Corman rendered his decision in the case of the people against Thompson who was charged with the Kearney-Hand murder. The justice found nothing in the evidence to warrant him in holding Thompson for trial and he was accordingly discharged from custody. The old man was quite delighted over his release, and returned to his ranch at Edgerton in the afternoon.

The game of base ball this afternoon between the home club and the Zacatecas will be one of the hardest fought contests that has been seen here for some time. The "Zacs" and "Solis" are the only clubs that our team has failed to defeat this season, and as this is the first opportunity they have had to "get even" with the "Zacs," they will be hard to win the game. The "Zacs" are a strong team, ranking second in the Denver league, and will play good ball to-day. They are doubly anxious to win now since our club defeated the Five Points as they are the only team in Denver that lead them. Ferguson and McMahon will do the honors for the home club, while Connell and Brady will probably cover the points for the "Zacs." Game will be called promptly at 3 o'clock to enable the visitors to get through in time to catch the Salt Lake express for Denver. The following will be the positions of the home club:

Ferguson	Pitcher
DeWitt	Short stop
M. J. McMahon	Catcher
Fitzgerald	First base
Lynch	Second base
Boyle	Third base
Connell	Left field
Hunter	Centre field
F. McMahon	Right field

Mr. E. P. Moon, of Hassed, has furnished us with the following weather record for the week ending July 25th: highest temperature, 89 on the 20th; lowest temperature, 41 on the 19th; highest daily mean temperature, 69 on the 20th; lowest daily mean temperature 63 on the 19th; weekly mean temperature 67.5°. Prevailing direction of the wind, north. Clearest days, 19th and 20th; cloudiest days, 21st, 22d and 23d.

THE G. A. R. EXCURSION TO COLUMBUS.

All members of the Grand Army of the Republic will remember with pleasure the delightful trip to St. Louis of last year on the WABASH, and many will bear in mind that the WABASH special train was the only one from the Western Country which arrived at St. Louis on time.

As the WABASH is the SHORT LINE to St. Louis so it is the Air Line to Columbus. G. A. R. men should bear this in mind and write to the undersigned for rates, time tables and Pullman accommodations.

BEST LINE EAST.

The Union Pacific Ry is by all odds the "Best Line East," on account of the fast time that is made and the comfortable homes for loving Denver. Also the close connection that is made in Union depots with the Grand Union from Kansas City, Council Bluffs, St. Louis, and Chicago, reaching all the principal cities in the east. The U. P. Ry. is also the short line to the Pacific Coast, running two trains daily west and four trains to the east daily. The evening trains from Colorado Springs make close connections in Denver with the Union Pacific Ry.

REAL ESTATE, INSURANCE AND LOANS

NO. 9 NORTH TEJON STREET.

We represent only OLD-TIME and RELIABLE INSURANCE COMPANIES—Companies that expect to PAY A LOSS when it occurs, so that we can guarantee in all cases a PROMPT, EQUITABLE and SATISFACTORY adjustment of loss should a fire occur. This is worthy of consideration.

IN REAL ESTATE we aim to handle only the most desirable properties, as we find that such PROPERTIES ONLY give satisfaction. We give a partial list below, to which we invite attention. NOW IS THE TIME TO INVEST, as with the fall months, the opening of the "Rock Island" and other roads there is bound to be a much greater advance. CALL AND SECURE a home now.

We are agents for LOTS IN BOULDER HEIGHTS ADDITION and only ask of strangers and others that they look at these lots before buying elsewhere. They are the CAPITOL HILL of our city and SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES. We also have lots WEST COLORADO SPRINGS, WEST BLUFF, Parrish's Addition, etc., for parties who wish to invest in that locality. Also THREE, FIVE and TEN acre tracts.

REPRESENTING THE FOLLOWING INSURANCE COMPANIES:

"You can fool some of the people all the time, you can fool all of the people some of the time, but you cannot fool all the people all the time."

Merchants who publish silly advertisements ponder on this profitably.

Is it better to deal with Clothiers who claim everything and show very little, or to patronize a house that professes only what it can perform?

We have a great stock of things that men and boys wear. Our Clothing is carefully selected and well made. Choose your apparel HERE, because we can fit you, please you and after you once learn the merits of our goods we believe you will continue to use them.
